Range Kleen Mfg., Inc. Introduces New “Trap the Grease” Program to the City of Los Angeles California

Lima, OH – May 4, 2006 - Range Kleen Mfg., Inc. announces that they have shipped the initial order from the City of Los Angeles, CA for the Fat Trapper “Trap the Grease” Program. Fats, Oils and Grease (F.O.G.) generated from household cooking is a serious concern for municipal waste water treatment facilities across the country and is one of their largest, repetitive problems. The fats, oils, and grease that are flushed through the waste water system have a major impact on the performance of the pumps that handle the water treatment process. “The Fat Trapper”, a plastic airtight container that holds used cooking grease in a disposable foil lined bag, will now be given to residents of the City of Los Angeles at community out reach and educational events sponsored by the city. Not only does this solve a huge problem for the waste water treatment plant, it also reduces the amount of clogs that home owners experience when they pour the grease down their drains. According to Jackie Schroeder, Range Kleen Special Accounts Manager, “The Fat Trapper” is an environmentally friendly product. The main purpose is to give consumers a convenient way to dispose of used cooking grease instead of pouring it down the drain or flushing it down the toilet. In addition to “Trap the Grease” programs around the country. ” The Fat Trapper” and Refill Bags will be available at major retail chains such as Linens N Things, Meijer Stores and Wal*Mart Stores in late spring of 2006. It is available now on the Range Kleen web page @ www.rangekleen.com
