

Range Kleen, Mfg. Goes Green With Modern Lights.

Lima, OH. Range Kleen, Mfg., the International Headquarters for one of the largest manufacturers of Replacement Range Accessories in the U.S., has switched to more energy-efficient lights in an effort to reduce its electricity consumption.

The Lima, Ohio based Company has replaced metal halide HID fixtures with energy-efficient T8 High Performance fixtures, reducing wattage of each fixture from 465 watts to 221 or 147 watts. Packaging and Processing facilities utilized conversion kits to replace T12 fixtures with energy saving T8 lamps and ballasts.

"We were able to lower our costs of energy for lighting by 60%," says a Pat O'Connor, President for the firm. "The lighting conversion demonstrates Range Kleen's commitment to our focus 'We Really Care' to our staff and customers. The elimination of energy waste is consistent with our objectives of developing and improving our efficiencies.

Matt Berney, Lean Operations Manager adds, "Range Kleen Mfg. has taken a genuine interest in reducing the cost of doing business. By reducing the energy footprint of our building, we have not only reduced costs on a long-term basis yet saved jobs in a tough economy. The improvement in lighting levels provide us with a Win-Win proposition."

Range Kleen Mfg. was recently recognized for their efforts to reduce energy cost by receiving the Green-Tint Energy Award. Range Kleen utilized the Federal Government's Epect tax deduction program to off set a portion of the costs of this project.

Environmental impact of this project is noteworthy. Air pollution calculations of this project correlate to Carbon Dioxide reductions of 60 tons per year, thus reducing the causes for global warming. Other environmental equivalents for annual improvement are: 11 acres of tree planted, 10 cars removed from the road, 5,109 gallons of gas saved and 122 barrels of oil saved.

Range Kleen has supplied consumers with top quality Range Replacement Parts for over 30 years. Their commitment and dedication to excellence has earned Range Kleen the #1 Brand ranking in range accessories according to A.C. Nielsen Scantrack Survey since 1992.
